

• ISSUE I • SPRING 2026

B

FROM THE DESK OF Big Nupe • CHICAGO

THE BROADWATER CHRONICLE

THE MAGAZINE THAT EXPLAINS THE YEARS AHEAD

• A PRIVATE EDITION FOR BIG NUPE

1 THE VISION

A first-person manifesto for the year ahead.

2 BIO

A short editorial introduction.

3 CAREER

Highlights of the work behind the next chapter.

4 THE FORECAST

Goals by domain — money, art, place, body.

5 THE DAILY CODE

Ten tenets. Read first thing. Read last thing.

6 CLOSING

Reserved for the next issue.

Always seeing forward.

Inside: the year ahead,
in plain ink.

6 sections. Darius Broadwater is a digital media professional, adventurer, and advocate for diverse entrepreneurship. Broadwater has built a significant career in advertising and digital strategy, focusing on capturing consumer attention in efficient digital environments. Originally from Chicago and an alumnus of Southern Illinois University.

+ a private edition.

VOL. I · NO. 1

FOR PRIVATE

CIRCULATION ONLY

THE VISION

ISSUE 1

BIG NUPE

A letter from Big Nupe.

The entrepreneurs I work with are not emerging — they have arrived, and most of the world has not caught up yet. From Chicago to every platform where culture moves, I have spent my career studying how attention gets assigned and who it routinely passes over. That knowledge now belongs entirely to the builders, founders, and storytellers who have been doing extraordinary work in plain sight.

This year, I go narrower and deeper. The brand craft I spent years developing goes toward founders whose names should already be known. Southern Illinois University did not give me shortcuts. What it gave me was a discipline for the work that does not show — and the patience to trust the results that follow.

I read because the sharpest strategists are also the most curious people in the room. I collect art because I believe in the long life of things made with intention. I move — with my family, across new terrain — because the perspective sharpens everything it touches. What I will not do is apply this

— Big Nupe

CHICAGO
EDITOR, THIS ISSUE

I The Forecast.

4 GOALS
THIS ISSUE

1 FINANCIAL

01

Cross $750K in combined revenue across his ventures this year—consulting retainers, content production, and the productized offering he's been sketching in notebooks for two years. Build 18 months of personal runway so he can take swings without flinching. Stand up a separate investment account funded by a fixed percentage off every invoice, and write his first angel check by Q4 into a founder he believes in. Stop trading hours for dollars on at least one income stream by year's end.

2

CREATIVE

01

Ship the signature long-form project he's been carrying around—a documentary, book, or hybrid platform that says something true about diverse entrepreneurship and isn't just another piece of content in the feed. Refresh and relaunch the podcast with a sharper editorial point of view and a small but committed roster of guests he wouldn't otherwise get in a room with. One piece of work this year that he'd be proud to put on a wall, not just in a portfolio.

3

PLACE

01

Make Chicago the anchor, not the cage. Spend at least one full season—90 consecutive days—living and working out of a city he's never based from before; Lisbon, Mexico City, and Cape Town are the shortlist. Add three new countries to the passport, with at least one being somewhere he can't yet pronounce. Begin scouting what a longer-term second base looks like—climate, community, creative ecosystem, flight paths home.

4 BODY & SPIRIT

Train for and complete one hard physical thing this year—a marathon, a high-altitude trek, or a return to Peru for a taller summit than the last. A non-negotiable morning practice: 20 minutes of stillness before the phone, every day.

- 01 Read 24 books, at least half of them outside marketing or business—poetry, fiction, history, anything that doesn't feel like homework. Mentor four young men consistently, not one-off coffees but real sustained relationships with people he can name in five years.

The Daily Code.

01 Become what
I think about.
Knock the rough edges off the mentals.

02 Use all my courage to define the goals — and to achieve them.

03 Carry the goals
everywhere.

04 Save ten percent of every

Read at first light, read again before sleep.

dollar earned.
Without
exception.

05

Stop the negative thoughts at the door. Do not let them
enter.

06

Do more than I have to do.
Always give more.

07

Believe in self. Stop the excuses.
Think only of reasons I can.

08

Act successful — until acting is no longer required.

09

Put the fuel
in before

10

Carpe diem.
Every

you ask for the heat.

brushstroke is intentional.
Every pixel
a piece of the masterpiece.

The case for the next chapter, in receipts.

Add achievements in the studio — Title, Year, Tag — and they'll appear here as numbered receipts across two columns.